Freedom in the Community

Thank you, Sue and Patrice, for all that you do!

We want to take a moment and recognize our very own Susan Manning-Bresuciak, who was honored last month with a 2019 Northeastern Maryland Technology Council (NMTC) Leader Award. Susan was recognized for her contributions in fundraising for STEM education, technology research, and scholarships. Sue does an incredible amount towards helping advance technology and innovation in Harford County, and we could not be more proud!

Sue Manning

Patrice Ricciardi

Another big 'Congratulations' goes to Patrice Ricciardi. Patrice is the Director of Business Development here at Freedom, and was recently named as an honoree of The Daily Record's 2019 Maryland's Top 100 Women Awards. Maryland's Top 100 Women recognizes outstanding achievements of women through professional accomplishments, community leadership, and mentoring.

Congratulations, Sue and Patrice!

FREEDOM FARMERS

There once was a farmer who grew excellent quality corn. Every year he won the award for the best grown corn. One year a newspaper reporter interviewed him and learned something interesting about how he grew it. The reporter discovered that the farmer shared his seed corn with his neighbors. "How can you afford to share your best seed corn with your neighbors when they are entering corn in competition with yours each year?" the reporter asked.

"Why sir," said the farmer, "Didn't you know? The wind picks up pollen from the ripening corn and swirls it from field to field. If my neighbors grow inferior corn, cross-pollination will steadily degrade the quality of my corn. If I am to grow good corn, I must help my neighbors grow good corn."

So it is with us... if we want to live meaningfully and well we must help enrich the lives of others, for the true value of Freedom is measured by the lives we touch. And if we want to be successful we must help others succeed, for the welfare of each is bound up with the welfare of all.

We really are all in this together.

Sallie Mae Loans are made by Sallie Mae Bank or a lender partner. Freedom Federal Credit Union is not the creditor for these loans and is compensated by Sallie Mae for the referral of Sallie Mae Loan customers.

Building Your Credit History Before You Graduate

At this point in your life, you likely know your credit score is one of the most important pieces of information about you. It determines everything from the kind of car and house you can afford, the rates you'll pay for insurance and credit cards, and even the kinds of jobs you can get all hinge on your credit score. While some credit-building will have to wait until after graduation, there are ways you can control your credit score now:

- 1) Get (and keep!) a Clean Payment Record - Pay your bills on time. It's good advice anyway, but if you're trying to build a credit history, making on-time payments is a critical first step. This includes both credit cards and other bills (electricity, Netflix, gym memberships). Don't have a credit card? Find out if your parents can make you an authorized user of their credit card, which will show as an account in your name and one that is being paid on time.
- 2) Manage Your Debt Use - On one hand, you want to build up a payment history. On the other, you don't want to max out the amount that's available to you. Don't charge more than 30% of your available credit. Use your credit card for small, regular purchases – a daily coffee or monthly tank of gas – and pay it off in full each month.
- 3) Guard Your Credit History - Too many inquiries on your credit history is a sign to lenders that you're using credit to finance your lifestyle. This makes them hesitant about lending to you. You may have to fight conventional wisdom and turn down free pizza if it requires a credit card application.

When it comes to credit cards, one is usually enough, and more can leave you in a world of hurt later.
